The rooftop pool and lounge at THE BRITELY in West Hollywood will offer sweeping views of the city.

IF YOUR NAME'S ON THE LIST ...

The highly anticipated members-only social club The Britely will debut in December within the Pendry West Hollywood, featuring a vintage-meets-modern aesthetic by AD100 interior designer Martin Brudnizki. Look forward to taking advantage of good weather in the private garden outside the club's entrance, or 10 floors above Sunset Boulevard at the rooftop swimming pool and lounge. Indoors, there's more to revel in, including a music venue, a screening room, a state-of-the-art spa, a 24-hour gym and even bowling lanes. That's to say nothing of the two restaurants by Michelin-starred chef Wolfgang Puck, which, along with three bars, will serve contemporary California-inspired menus. Add to all this The Britely's plans for cultural programming, member retreats and curated activities throughout the city, and the club looks poised to deliver just the kind of community experience that discerning Angelenos crave. $2,800/annual membership for founding members. 8430 Sunset Blvd., West Hollywood; thebritely.com. DYE ANOTHER DAY

Hypnotic tie-dye electrified Dior's savoir faire this fall. It even inspired Tie & Dior, the house's new 100-plus-piece high jewelry collection. The resulting earrings, rings, bracelets, necklaces and timepieces feature intensely hued sapphires, garnets, diamonds, tourmalines and rubies. 185 Post St. S.F., 415-398-2204; 309 N. HOME CHIC HOME

Good things come to those who wait. After a four-year search, Interlude Home has opened its first showroom in West Hollywood. Having years of experience in magazine publishing, creative director Wendy King Philips takes a fashion-inspired approach, offering bouclé teardrop daybeds, acrylic chairs with shearing upholstery and a healthy dose of neutral-hued pieces. 8900 Beverly Blvd., Ste. 106, West Hollywood, 310-804-9237; interludehome.com. A FASHIONABLE LIFE

In What Becomes a Legend Most (Harper, $35), photography critic Philip Gafter chronicles the life and legacy of the late Richard Avedon through exclusive interviews, archival research and 16 pages of photos. The new book — which explores what influence Avedon's artist friends (including James Baldwin and Leonard Bernstein) had on his work — is the first definitive biography on the lauded 20th-century lensman.
